

RUSSIAN FLEET

Today Reported to be Still In Kamranh Bay.

AGITATION AGAINST FRENCH

St. Petersburg Discredits Report
Part of Squadron Was Seen
Off Hong Kong

(Bulletin.)

Saigon, French Cochinchina, April 20.—The Russian fleet is still in Kamranh bay. Admiral Dejonqueres, commanding French vessels in this region, has taken every step to insure the neutrality of France while the vessels remain in these waters.

St. Petersburg, April 20.—A telegram from Chan Chavatski, Manchuria, says the Russian patrol reports a turning movement has begun 50 miles north-west of Kwanchensi. Two forces are participating each composed of 3,000 Chuchuses and several thousand Japanese. The latter are supplied with twenty-two guns.

Tokyo, April 20.—Although not reported directly, it is believed that the Russian second Pacific squadron continues the occupation of Kamranh bay or some other port of Annam, where it is expected to remain until joined by the third Pacific squadron. The report that Rojstevsky is maintaining a patrol and examining neutral shipping off Kamranh bay increases the irritation toward France for permitting the use of that port as a base of operations. The Japanese government continues silent regarding the representations on this subject which have been made to France. The press, however, continues its agitation against France, demanding vigorous action.

Headquarters in Manchuria reports: "A Japanese force advanced toward Tungshu, 50 miles east of Haicheng, and occupied that place April 15. The enemy retreated to the north. There has been no change in the situation elsewhere."

A momentous war conference, lasting five hours, was held here, attended by the elder statesmen, the premier and the ministers. It is said that Japan has sent a protest to France on the Russian Pacific squadron's presence in Kamranh bay, but that France has not yet replied. It is believed the Japanese fleet is ready to sail for Kamranh bay.

Fear Torpedo Attacks.
St. Petersburg, April 20.—The keenest interest is manifested in the dispatches referring to the Russian squadron commanded by Admiral Rojstevsky, but the admiralty claims to be as much in the dark as the public regarding the plans of the admiral. The report that part of the squadron was sighted off Hongkong is not credited here, as Hongkong is off its route. The conviction is growing stronger that the Japanese heavy division is concentrating close to the shores of Japan, and it is also believed that Admiral Togo will decline to give battle in the open sea. This is what the admiralty hopes for, as it sincerely believes Rojstevsky would have more than an even chance if the two squadrons lined up in an open fight. They believe that Togo's tactics will be night torpedo attacks in attempts to scatter the Russian ships.

Japs to Raise Another Loan.
Washington, April 20.—It is learned here that the Japanese government is about to raise another domestic loan of $50,000,000, and the fact that this follows so quickly on the fourth domestic loan and the issue of the $150,000,000 foreign loan in London and New York has led to an explanation from official sources designed to correct any misapprehension. This is to the effect that the projected loan is part of the whole general scheme of war expenditures, estimated at $290,000,000, appropriated for by the Japanese parliament in the budget for the fiscal year, and the new loan also has been arranged for by the agreement with the bankers made last March to supply $100,000,000.

Attempt to Cut Railroad.
Harbin, April 20.—There was a determined attempt on the night of April 17 to cut the railroad between Harbin and Vladivostok, a formidable body of Chinese bandits making an attack near the station of Inyampo, 100 miles east of Harbin. After a desperate fight, which lasted several hours, the bandits were driven off and dispersed. Many smaller companies of Chinese bandits are roving in the rear of the Russian army, but disappear when pursued. It is thought probable that they are Manchurians, who scatter to their villages when they find themselves in danger.

HIS GRAVE

Filled by an Intruder Who Uses His Tombstone Also—Soldiers Send Queer Complaint.

Columbus, O., April 20.—The official protest of a man who asserted that an intruder is occupying his grave and using his tombstone has been received by Adjutant General Critchfield who gasped with astonishment when he read the queerest communication that had ever come to his department. The complainant cannily enough wrote to protect his rights, and he did so successfully too. He is Joseph Mahaffy, a member of Company A, Fourth regiment, O. V. I. In his letter to the Adjutant General he says:

"I have been in the Eastern country for 30 years and came back here on a visit and find they have me dead and buried at Mt. Vernon, and my tombstone on another man's grave. I would like to know the party that got my tombstone, for I am liable to die again some day, and I want a tombstone or the money to buy one with."

Mr. Mahaffy is visiting in Mt. Vernon. By a new state law county commissioners are authorized to put markers at soldiers' graves, where not marked by their families. Some one seems to have reported Mahaffy dead and his marker was placed.

The matter will be referred to commissioners of Knox county, who will likely remove the tombstone and inform Mr. Mahaffy that it will be held subject to his demise.

RAN AWAY

From Too Strenuous Love, Pleads
Scheuck, Who Married Kin of Ex-Governor Yates.

Chicago, Ill., April 20.—Milton C. Scheuck, of Superior street, whose wife is a cousin of ex-Governor Yates of Illinois, tells Justice Mahoney that she made such demonstrations of her affection for him that he could not remain at home. He was on trial for abandonment. Scheuck declared that he was often called home after going to work by a telephone message, and that when he reached his doorstep his wife would be waiting for him with the question, "Why didn't you kiss me this morning?"

"She wanted to keep the honeymoon going all the time," the much enduring grocery clerk said. "Finally I had to choose between business or this constant loving, and I chose business. I still love my wife. I don't know what to do."

The justice took the case under advisement.

DEATH

Lurked in the Box of Candy Sent to
Mrs. Florence Hogan as a Birthday Present.

Mobile, Ala., April 20.—A report was lodged at police headquarters of an attempt made on the life of Mrs. Florence Hogan by means of a box of candy sent her through the mails by some unknown person, presumably as a birthday present, yesterday being her birthday anniversary.

When she opened the box she found it contained fine candy, but it emitted a peculiar odor and was covered with a fine powder. She took it to a nearby drug store and was informed that it contained enough poison to kill 50 people. Detectives are on the case and it is understood the government will make an investigation.

NEUTRALITY

Discussed When Mikado's Representative Called Upon M. Delcasse in Paris Wednesday.

Paris, April 20.—Your correspondent today learned from an unofficial source that while Japan has not officially protested to France against the alleged violation of neutrality in Indo-Chinese waters, Dr. Motono, the Japanese representative, profited by yesterday's diplomatic reception to allude to the question of neutrality in Indo-China in conversation with M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs. The latter explained France's attitude and the interview ended courteously.

A bell which was rescued red-hot from a burning church at Hopkins, Mo., cracked just like the old Liberty Bell, when cold water was thrown upon it.

On January 15 last two French engineers succeeded in reaching the summit of the Fourcad Agnelli, in Switzerland, an altitude of nearly 13,700 feet.

A cotton mill has been opened by a native Chinese company at Shanghai with a mandarin as president. There are 40,000 spindles, requiring 2,000 men and children to look after them, and the cotton used is of Chinese growth.

MUCH DAMAGE

Done by Earthquake in Spain and Lives Were Also Probably Lost.

Valencia, Spain, April 20.—Long and pronounced earthquake waves which rose to the height of twenty yards, were observed here yesterday. Innumerable fishes were killed by the phenomenon and many wells overflowed. A great deal of damage is reported to day. It is believed that several persons lost their lives.

DROPPED DEAD

While Holding Baby in Arms
—Woman at Last Identified.

St. Louis, April 20.—With her six-weeks-old infant in her arms, Mrs. Francis W. Mullen dropped dead at the crowded and busy corner of Broadway and Washington avenues, Wednesday. The body remained unidentified until this morning, when the woman's husband, a motorman, claimed it. Death was evidently due to heart failure.

GRAIN PRICES

Thirty-Five Ohio Millers Form a Combine for the Purpose of Establishing Uniform Prices.

Canton, O., April 20.—To control prices of grain and flour in the northern part of the state 35 millers formed a trust organization here yesterday. Slashing of prices resulting from a dull flour market, has been the bane of the milling business. It is to overcome this condition that the millers have banded and agreed to establish uniform prices. While the organization is not to be formally completed until May, the scale of prices will be prepared and adopted immediately. The organization numbers among its members the biggest milling establishments of northern Ohio.

Heaviest Snow Known.

MARRIED MEN TO DECIDE FATE
NAN PATTERSON

Actress' Jury Completed After 94
Men Were Examined.

One Bachelor and a Widower in the Dozen—The Girl Will Testify at Her Third Trial.

New York, April 20.—The jury which is to decide the fate of Nan Patterson, on trial for the third time upon the charge of murdering Caesar Young, a bookmaker, was completed at 7:40 o'clock last night, when Recorder Goff adjourned court until next Monday morning.

Miss Patterson is to again face a jury composed almost entirely of married men, only two of the accepted panel of 12 being single, one a bachelor and the other a widower. Most of the jurymen are men of middle age and beyond. Many of them have large families, some grown daughters who are married. When the jury was completed 94 tallesemen had been questioned. It is announced that the defendant will take the stand again during the present trial and tell her story of how Young met his death. It is also said that Miss Patterson is anxious that her sister Mrs. J. Morgan Smith should become a witness for the defense, although it has not been determined as yet either by the prosecution or the girl's lawyers just what part the J. Morgan Smith shall play.

Recorder Goff delivered the customary warning to the jury not to discuss the case or to allow it to be discussed in their hearing. He then adjourned the court. Miss Patterson had a little chat with her father and was then led back to her cell in the Tombs.

WHEAT CORNER

Engineered by Jno. W. Gates
Collapses Because of Armour Interests.

Chicago, April 20.—The May wheat corner of John W. Gates collapsed today. The failure was due largely to the accumulations of cash wheat by the Armour interests, effectually heading off the efforts of the bulls. It is believed the losses sustained by Gates and his associates will be very heavy.

OVER THE OCEAN

Twenty-Two Girls Have Come to Enter an Ohio Convent—Unusual Catholic Event.

Wapakoneta, O., April 20.—A notable event in the history of the Catholic convent at Maria Stein, Mercer county, will be the accession this week of 22 young girls who have just come over from Europe to enter the convent. Venerable Mother Emma, C. P. S., has been making a tour of Europe since November, and a part of her mission to the old country was to secure recruits for the colony.

The girls who have crossed the ocean, leaving home and kindred thousands of miles behind to enter the convent, are said to come from wealthy families. All traces of wealth and distinction are laid aside, however, and they enter the quiet convent in the little country village to spend the next five years in fitting themselves for their duties.

The first year at Maria Stein convent will be spent in general studies, when the students are known as postulantes. Then they advance to the novitiate grade, and for four years are in the novice class. The sixth year they will be known as nuns, and will then be ready for their life of service and self-abnegation.

SEVEN BABES

Within Twenty Months the Record of Mrs. Bailey—Triplets the Last to Arrive.

Laurel, Del., April 20.—Eight months ago Mrs. Uriah Bailey, the seventeen-year old wife of a mechanic employed in the factory of Samuel Bacon & Sons presented her husband with twins. Yesterday Dr. Andrew Fleetwood was called in and the young woman gave birth to triplets.

The youngsters were well formed and seemingly perfect, but died soon after birth.

Specialists say that Mrs. Bailey has broken the world's record, having given birth to seven children within two years, as twenty months ago she bore her first twins. She is a trail woman not weighing over 115 pounds, and the father looks nothing more than a mere boy, smooth faced and much below the medium sized man.

"Bailey," and his wife, who is doing nicely, are amazed that outsiders should take so much interest in their domestic affairs, as evidenced by the many callers today.

HER LIPS

Stained by Nicotine and Frank Wants a Divorce from Tobacco Chewing Wife.

Findlay, O., April 20.—Charging his wife with being an inveterate chewer of tobacco, Charles H. Frank wants the courts to grant him a divorce. The couple were married in October, 1902, and lived together only six days, the husband accusing his wife of having married him for his money only.

Frank further states that his wife had a husband living at Washington, Pa., who did not procure a divorce until after his wife's second marriage. Later, Frank avers, she returned to Washington, and without first being divorced from the plaintiff she remarried her former husband.

RICH WIDOW

Aged Sixty Years Insisted on Marrying Her Eighteen-Year-Old Coachman.

Glen Falls, N. Y., April 20.—Mrs. N. O. Griffin, an old gray-haired woman of 60, the widow of a Philadelphia carpet merchant, who left an estate valued at $1,000,000, leaning on the arm of her sturdy coachman, John Wood, appeared at the Episcopal rectory in Whitehall and told Rev. Mr. Elliott that they wanted to get married. The 42-years' difference in their ages was so apparent that the clergyman used every effort to dissuade them from their matrimonial venture. It was all to no avail, however, and the only answer the woman would make was: "I don't care if Johnnie is only 18, I am 60 and I guess I am old enough to know whether I love him or not."

The minister performed the ceremony. The bride, beaming all over with contentment, as she boarded the train, said she felt 30 years younger, and she looked it, too.

NEW DIRECTORY

WILL CONTAIN NAMES OF ALL OVER SIXTEEN YEARS OLD.

City is Now Being Carefully Canvassed and Book Will be Issued Early in the Summer.

Messrs. Juch and Renz who are preparing to issue a new city directory early in the summer, now have a number of representatives going over the city making accurate record of names and residences. It is said that this is the first time a complete record of this kind will have been made.

Already 2,000 names have been secured and it is estimated that altogether the directory will contain 15,000 names. Names of people over 16 are being secured. In each house the names of the family are secured and number of members of the household. The first 200 names represented exactly 690 people. Providing this rule holds good through the entire canvass and if the total number of names reaches 15,000, it will indicate a population of 25,000 people. Five years ago Newark's population was a little over 18,000.

The work is being done with great care and by intelligent people, all of whom are anxious to have the new directory complete and accurate.

THE REAL TEST

of Herpide is in giving it a thorough trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair restorers may look nice and smell nice, but the point is, do they eradicate dandruff and stop falling hair?
No, they do not, but Herpide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the follicle from whence the hair gets its life.
Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Herpide's formula stands the "test of time". It is a beautiful dressing, clear, pure and free from all oil or grease.

He will probably have a hearing in the Probate court on Friday.

DEPUTY WARDEN

Arrests Lon Fisher at Buckeye Lake on Charge of Shooting Game Out of Season at Lake.

Deputy State Game Warden Charles Heyl, who stays at Buckeye Lake, strode into town Thursday afternoon with Lon Fisher in tow. The couple sauntered into Squire Lake's court, where the deputy warden filed an affidavit against Fisher charging him with having in his possession seven water fowls which had been killed out of season.

The officers found the defendant with five ducks and two mud hens in a sack. A shotgun was also brought into court as evidence against the man. Fisher entered a plea of not guilty and left at once in custody of the officer to consult an attorney.

The penalty provided for such cases is a fine of $25 for each bird.

THE SOAP TREE.

Its Fruit Is Used For Making Washes and Washing Powders.

The Sapiadus utilis, or "soap tree," was introduced into Algeria in 1845. The soap tree in Algeria appears to be a hybrid and has characteristics quite different from those of any of the known varieties coming from India, Japan, China and Central America, and it is superior to all in general usefulness.

The Sapiadus utilis is a large tree with a smooth, straight trunk. The plants reach to about ten feet in height in two years and begin to bear in six years. The berry is round, but with a distinct keel like that of a walnut encircling it. It is when fresh smooth, shiny and fleshy. When dried it is tough, gummy and translucent. The color varies from yellowish green to brown. In size it varies from about half an inch to an inch in diameter.

So far the cultivation of this tree in Algeria has been confined to the low lying lands near the coast, the orange belt, but it is believed that it would endure a more severe climate. The only large plantation of these trees is that of M. Bertrand at his property of Boukandoura, about eighteen miles from Algiers, covering some hundred and fifty acres.

There are no important manufactures of soap tree products in Algeria. The entire product of the plantation referred to above went last year to Germany. A good deal of the fruit is employed in its natural state, and many chemists produce specialties from it, such as "saponine," an excellent washing powder; "sapiadine," a reputed hair wash, and other articles for toilet purposes. Panama wood, which is extensively used in Europe for washing, contains on an average about 8 percent of saponine, while the dried fruit of the soap tree contains fully 28 percent.—Report of United States Consul Kidder, Algiers.

Mrs. Astor's Fear For Her Jewels.

The attention which Mrs. Vanderbilt attracted at a recent White House reception, on account of the large number of jewels she wore, has recalled a similar occasion several years ago, when Mrs. Astor appeared at a White House reception covered with precious gems.

But, unlike Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Astor was very much frightened. She was invited "behind the line," a space reserved for distinguished persons, and, getting as near the president as she could, there she remained during almost the entire evening. Finally a high official was able to quiet her fears sufficiently to induce her to make one tour of the east room, and she then left for her hotel. It was said that she feared some one might rob her of some of the jewels.—Washington Post.

Rent Insurance the Latest.

The latest departure in insurance circles is protection against loss of rental values. In advocating this new form of policy some companies argue that it should be adopted if for no other reason than that in case of fire no reduction is allowed on taxes, mortgage interest, etc., which expense, it is claimed, is alone heavy enough without the additional loss of rents.

Certain companies agree that when any of their property risks are damaged by burning the insurance agent makes good the rent during the time consumed in making the premises again tenable. Where the insured occupies a building that suffers by conflagration the agent is authorized to provide funds whereby other quarters may be had.—New York Press.

A Curious Spring.

A very curious spring has been discovered near Epitaph del Cerro, Colombia. The spring is about fifty feet deep, but the water is so clear that the stones at the bottom can be easily counted. The discovery was made by American explorers, who have already reported their finding to scientists in the City of Mexico and the United States. It is believed that the water contains radium or that there is a deposit of the rare metal in the neighborhood, and to this is ascribed the transparency of the water. Furthermore, it has been observed that by night the well seems to be illuminated by St. Elmo's fire. Mexican Herald.

A Narrow Escape.

A sailor named Kelly, while at Port Louis, Mauritius, recently, contracted fever and fell into a state of coma. The cataplexy was so prolonged that he was pronounced dead and removed to the mortuary. When the only attendant came to prepare his body for burial he found him breathing, and he had come to contact with the shock stick on which he was laid. The shock broke the spell and roused him to life again. The doctor called, and Kelly had to be freed from his grave clothes. He was fully conscious of all that had happened when in a state of cataplexy, but was unable to move or speak.

WHEN EASTER COMES.

The average person waits to be informed each year when Easter is to come, entirely befogged as to how it is determined. The rules determining this festival were formulated by the council of Nicea in the year 325 A. D., and are as follows:

First—That the twenty-first day of March should be accounted the vernal equinox.

Second—That the full moon happening upon, or next after, March 21, should be taken for the full moon of Nisan—that is, the ecclesiastical moon.

Third—That the Sunday next following should be Easter Sunday.

Fourth—If the full moon happen on a Sunday, Easter day should be the Sunday afterwards.

This year the actual full moon, next after which Easter comes, is on April 20. The full moon next preceding came March 21, or what is by the rules accounted the vernal equinox.

Some change in calendars necessary in Gregory's times makes a strict following of the letter of these rules impracticable, and hence Easter does not this year come on the Sunday following March 21, but April 23.

As a scientific guess the population of the United States is estimated at this time by the census bureau at $2,516,000. It is not insisted that the estimate is absolutely correct, for it is based on the theory that the annual increase of population since the last census would be one-tenth of the decennial increase between the last two censuses. The country is increasing in population with a constantly decreasing percentage. The method of computation adopted by the census office has proved to be more accurate than any other except the decennial count of the population, the next one of which will take place in June, 1910, and which will give a total population of something less than 90,000,000.

Suit in Partition—Wilson vs. the City of Newark.

The following business was transacted in Common Pleas court Wednesday:

Grace Wilson vs. The City of Newark; an action to reverse a judgment of conviction before the mayor for keeping a disorderly house. No error found in the proceedings before the mayor, and the petition in error was dismissed. Smythe & Smythe; Daugherty.

Nellie Richards vs. Harry Wheeler; an action to recover money lost at gambling. The question raised was whether the action was barred by the statute of limitations; the money was claimed to have been lost in 1900, suit being brought in 1902. The court held that the limitation of one year applied, and that the bar of the statute had fallen. The justice had also so held, and the judgment of the justice was affirmed. The effect of the decision is that the plaintiff is not entitled to recover. James; Smythe & Smythe. Exceptions were noted.

John Fitzgerald et al vs. Styron, Beggs & Co., an action brought to restrain defendants from encroaching on Railroad street with building and platform, it being claimed that the width of the street was thereby reduced below 20 feet. The remedy that the plaintiffs sought by the proceeding has been accomplished by compromise. The petition was dismissed, without record; as to the division of the costs see entry. Daugherty; Kibler & Kibler.

Suit in Partition.

Floyd Varner, Malissa Cromer and Samuel Varner, by their attorneys Smythe & Smythe, have commenced suit in partition in the Common Pleas court against Morton E. Varner, Milton L. Varner and Dorcas Varner. The plaintiffs say they are heirs-at-law of Emanuel Varner, deceased, of one-fifth part of each of 96 acres in Hanover township, and that the defendants are tenants in common with the plaintiffs of the premises. That Dorcas Varner is the widow of Emanuel Varner, and is the mother of the other two defendants. The title to the land came to the tenants in common by inheritance from their father, Emanuel Varner, who died on March 16, 1905, but all the debts of Emanuel Varner have been secured, and there is personal property sufficient belonging to the estate to pay all unsecured debts; that Dorcas Varner is entitled to dower as the widow of Emanuel Varner.

Plaintiffs ask that by an order of the court their interest in the premises be set off to them each one-fifth part in severalty, if the same can be done without manifest injury. If not, that the premises be sold according to law, and that partition be made, and for such other proceedings as are authorized by law.

Temporary Injunction Granted.

The Ohio Telephone and Telegraph company has commenced suit in the Common Pleas court against Grace Robinson. The plaintiff says that for a valuable consideration the defendant on June 1, 1904, executed and delivered to the plaintiff an instrument in writing by the terms of which the defendant granted plaintiff the right to construct and maintain its lines of telephone and telegraph upon and over her property in Wagram. Plaintiff says that it built its line of telephone and telegraph through and along the premises of the defendant, and that it has enjoyed the rights and privileges of the same, and has from time to time, as it became necessary, trimmed along its line the trees belonging to the defendant, up to 15 months ago when the defendant refused to permit the plaintiff to trim the trees, and since that date has refused to permit the plaintiff to trim the trees.

Plaintiff says that just before the filing of this petition it attempted to trim the trees and was denied the right to do so, and was threatened with bodily injury and personal violence should an attempt be made to trim the trees.

Plaintiff asks the court that the defendant be restrained from in any way interfering with its right and privileges in the conduct of its business, and from interfering with it in trimming the trees along its line of telephone and telegraph, and that upon a final hearing a decree for a perpetual injunction restraining defendant from the acts mentioned be granted, for costs of this action and for all proper relief.

A temporary injunction as prayed for was granted by Judge Seward R. F. McDonald, attorney for plaintiff.

AMENDED PETITION

In Damage Suit Filed Some Time Ago by Mrs. Lucy Harkey Adams Who Wants $25,000.

In the case of Dr. Lucy Harkey Adams against Addison C. Dickinson, publisher of the American Tribune, for damages, the plaintiff has filed an amended petition. Mrs. Adams says that she has been engaged in the practice of medicine for over fifteen years; that she formerly lived in Newark, where she practiced her profession, and that she has always borne a good reputation. She says that in 1901 a certain man and woman called by the names of Jackson and Diss DeBar were reported to be engaged in various parts of the world, and especially in London, England, in a disreputable business, among other things of enticing young girls for immoral purposes. That they were arrested and brought before one of the magistrates courts of London, England, for preliminary trial, and were tried in said court. That the defendant caused it to be believed that she was connected with the Diss DeBars and that she was called by the Diss DeBars as a witness for them at the trial, and that she was one of them in their notorious business and had travelled with them in various parts of the world, and to bring her into hatred, contempt and ridicule, to deprive her of decent society, and to injure her in her business, published a libel in the American Tribune of December 2, 1901, concerning her regarding the trial of Jackson and Diss DeBar in London, in which Dr. Adams was said to have been a witness, and in which she was denounced as the murderer of her husband.

Mrs. Adams denies every statement made in the newspaper article. She says she never knew or had anything to do with the persons called the Diss DeBars, and that she never saw either of them; that she had never been in a court in London or even a witness of any kind in England; that she never was in England in her life. She says she has been greatly injured in her good name, and prejudiced in her profession, and that she has also lost and been deprived of great gains which would otherwise have accrued to her in her profession, and that she has been damaged in the sum of $25,000 for which she asks judgment. J. V. Hilliard and Hunter & Hunter, attorneys for the plaintiff.

YOUNG NEWARK MAN WHO ALMOST LOST HIS LIFE A FEW DAYS AGO.

By Thirty-Five Foot Fall at Lexington—Will Wed Miss Harriet Sproule Next Sunday.

Mr. Grant Moore, of 55 North Morris street, went into the Probate court Thursday and secured a marriage license for Charles Foster Gordon and Miss Harriet Sproule. Mr. Gordon, the groom-elect, is a resident of Newark, and is a son of Mr. William Gordon. For some time past he has been employed by the B. & O. railroad company as a fireman. On Sunday evening, April 9, while standing on the pilot of his engine at Lexington, owing to the darkness, he failed to notice that the engine was standing on a bridge, and stepped off, falling to the rocks, 35 feet below the trestle. He was picked up and taken to Mansfield and placed in the hospital at that place, where, for a time his life was despaired of. He, however, rallied and his recovery has been rapid.

Miss Harriet Sproule is a daughter of Jacob Sproule and is a most estimable young woman.

The happy couple will be married on Sunday but, at this writing it is not known who the officiating minister will be.

Child Labor Evils.
The interest which has been aroused in the country generally, and especially in this city and state, by the present discussion of child labor evils is of good omen. The agitation in favor of passing even more stringent laws or of supplementary legislation for the purpose of aiding in the enforcement of existing laws indicates that the commonwealth will be in the forefront of a movement which has the support of all humane men and women.—Philadelphia Ledger

Got a place—how I can't say—
In th' railroad shop one day;
Always kep' his box eye
Peered an' always askin' why
When a hole was bored—well, he Took a peek down an' presently
Look up at some one an' say
In his own imp'rin' way,

Well, sir, next thing I hear
He'd slipped up a kist'n' rear
All his own, discovered by
His eternal askin' why.
Got a patent for it, then
With a mind of mischief

Just kep' cool an' stared right there

JAMIE'S PERCH ON CHIMNEY.

Irish Steeplejack Defied Police From Lofty Refuge on a Tall Stack.

No more suddenly did fame come to Baden-Powell through his heroic defense of Mafeking than in these piping days of peace it has descended on Jamie Gill, the Irish steeplejack, because of his long defiance of the Irish police from the dizzy summit of a lofty chimney stack. And the nimble witted Jamie has not been long in turning his fame to pecuniary account, for he is now filling a profitable engagement in a Belfast music hall, with the prospect of making still more money on the London variety stage.

It is a lamentable truth that he owes his rise in fortune to the fact that on one occasion he got unmistakably and outrageously drunk. He was arrested and sentenced to pay a fine or in default thereof to expiate his offense by a month's imprisonment.

Jamie elected to do neither. He succeeded in giving the constables the slip and sought refuge on the top of a mammoth chimney stack belonging to an abandoned factory on Sugar Island, a short distance from his own home in the town of Newry. His destruction had been decreed, and some inside scaffolding which had been directed to facilitate the work made the perilous ascent a comparatively easy task for a man of Jamie's nerve and skill. But it was too tough a job for the police to undertake, especially with Jamie on the summit, prepared to drop a brick on the head of the first of them who appeared inside. They decided that it would be safer to lay siege to him from without and starve him into surrender.

Jamie's friends, however, contrived to smuggle supplies to him, and for two weeks he held possession of his novel fortress. Some ally got him a red flag, which he waved defiantly at the police and dared them to come and take him. During the daytime crowds assembled about the chimney stack and vociferously cheered him. Newspaper correspondents were dispatched to the scene, who held long distance interviews with Jamie and telegraphed to their various papers graphic accounts of the progress of the siege.

All this spelled fame for the plucky Irishman. Just how he contrived to sleep on his giddy perch is his own secret. But every morning found him there as fresh as a daisy, dancing jigs and singing songs for the delectation of the crowds below and heaping scorn upon the police. He became the popular hero of Newry. Had there been a parliamentary vacancy in the district he might have been elected by a large majority.

But pride goes before a fall. One night Jamie essayed to descend from the chimney to communicate with some of his friends who had signaled to him that the "bobbie" who was supposed to be on watch was asleep. Some distance from the ground he missed his footing and came down with a crash. The policeman, awakened from his slumber, pounced upon him.

For a couple of days Jamie lay in bed "playing possum," and whenever a policeman entered his room his sufferings apparently became intense. The police kept no watch over him there, it seemed so obviously needless. They proposed that he should be removed to the prison infirmary at Dundalk, where he could receive proper medical attendance. He gracefully acquiesced in the suggestion. But bright and early next morning he slipped out of bed and despite his lameness managed to reach the top of the chimney stack again, and there the police who came to take him to the infirmary discovered him as chipper as a cricket.

Then a Belfast music hall proprietor awoke to the discovery that talent was being wasted on top of that chimney stack. Negotiations were opened with Jamie on his lofty perch, with the result that he is now reaping the reward of his climb to the pinnacle of fame. He is popularly supposed to be still defying the police from the theater, but it is shrewdly suspected that his fee has been privately paid, and that he has made his peace with the law.

ALLCOCK HERE FIRST NEWARK HIGH

MANHATTAN TO BE HEADQUARTERS FOR NEWARK TEAM.

Rain on Reporting Day Prevented Practice—Season Opens Here in a Few Days.

Idlewild's reporting day opened up rather badly Thursday when the morning dawned with a heavy rain falling. The dampness put to rout all thoughts of any practice for the first day, but the time was well spent in making new acquaintances and renewing old ones.

All cock was the first man to put in his appearance from out of the city. He arrived Wednesday night at 7:30 over the B. & O. and was met by President Hayes of the Idlewild club. The Manhattan hotel will again be used as headquarters for the team this season, and all men were taken to that hostelry upon their arrival.

Hollander and Rattan blew in from Cincinnati on a late train Wednesday evening and reported to Manager Snodgrass. McCowan of Ada and Knepper of Muncie, Ind., arrived on Thursday morning and up to noon the above list is complete.

Perhaps the rainfall was not a great piece of bad luck for the opening day for the grounds are not quite ready for hard usage yet. A heavy roller will be used on the diamond which will make the field a very desirable one.

Manager Snodgrass, who has been with the Hayes company on North Park Place, will now devote his entire time to baseball business and will not doubt be found for the greater part of the time at the hotel with the rest of the players.

All fans are anxious to see Newark's peps on the diamond and see what the final line up will be. With a few days of good weather the favorites will be picked out and after a week's practice the season will be on in earnest.

Lefty Snyder and Harry Taylor, together with Manager Snodgrass were already on hand. Later Thursday morning, T. J. Langton of Utica, a young twirler who will be given an opportunity to make good, arrived from Utica, his home. Herbert H. Beihl blew in a little later and the entire bunch, ten in number are spending the rainy day at the Manhattan.

The bulletin board which was so popular among the fans last year, was gotten out and dusted this morning, and as fast as the men arrived their names were placed on the board. The scores of each game will be chalked up on this board as soon as received by the hotel management.

For Uniform Electrical Units.
Strong hopes are entertained that international uniformity in electrical units may shortly be secured. Our foreign office has the matter under consideration on the report of experts who attended the St. Louis electrical congress. In all likelihood an international commission, which it is suggested should arrange such a system of electrical units—in terms of the ohm, volt and ampere—will foregather at Geneva or The Hague. In many countries, including Russia, Norway and Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, Portugal, Italy and Japan, no electrical units have yet been legalized.—London Telegraph.

Engineers are planning to make great changes in the port of London. It is proposed to build a great dam across the Thames river, between Gravesend and Tilbury, and to provide this dam with locks so as to give a uniform depth of thirty feet above the barrier, rendering the upper Thames independent of tides. The barrage proposed would be built with four locks, two 1,000 feet in length and two 800 feet, for the passage of shipping. In the base of the dam would be constructed a railroad tunnel connecting Kent and Essex.

MAY BUILD NEW ROUND HOUSE

RAILWAY COMPANY CONSIDERING IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE AT NEWARK.

Water Supply Along the B. & O. Road. Budget of Local and General News of Interest.

The Advocate today learns from an authoritative source that the Baltimore & Ohio railway company which is to expend about $100,000 in improving the local shops this spring and summer, instead of building an addition to the present round house at Newark, is now considering the question of erecting an entirely new round house here. The matter has not as yet been finally decided, but definite action is expected within a short time. This much is certain: The B. & O. will spend a large sum of money on the Newark shops and some extensive improvements will be made.

B. & O. Water Supply.

The B. & O. railroad is making extensive improvements in connection with the supply of water for use in its locomotives. President Murray has recently authorized improvements on the line of the system between Camden and Philadelphia, which includes the establishment of water tanks at Camden and Philadelphia, and the improvement of the water supply at Camden. The work will cost about $100,000.

At Camden the plan is to extend the property well beyond the A. Griffin, a fairly well known steamship line, to the point where the river enters the bay, and from there to the point where the river enters the bay. The plan is to extend the property well beyond the A. Griffin, a fairly well known steamship line, to the point where the river enters the bay, and from there to the point where the river enters the bay.

be piped to suitable storage tanks and made use of.

The recent annual droughts in this district have resulted in the river waters becoming badly contaminated and polluted by the refuse from mines, mills and decaying of animal and vegetable matter, and this has resulted not only in the scarcity of supply but in a water that is entirely unfit for locomotive purposes, and the consequence has been an unlimited expense and delay in the handling and maintenance of power, and in the movement of traffic. Where an annual supply of water is available the best method is to provide reservoirs of sufficient capacity to tide over during the dry season and to supply water by gravity during the entire year. At quite a number of places such a supply cannot be provided, and in these cases it is necessary to make use of the river waters, and treat them by a combined mechanical and chemical process, in order to eliminate the impurities and acids, which attack the sheets and lines of locomotive boilers, causing serious leakage and other interference with the movement of the power.

The making of these improvements in the source of supply, and for the treatment of impure waters will relieve the conditions that have existed in this district each fall for some years past, and will enable the more prompt movement of the traffic during the fall and winter season.

A 100,000-gallon tank will also be installed at Camden. Part of a gravity water supply established at Camden, on the Camden and Philadelphia line, a dam across the river, and an additional water tank constructed at Camden, W. Va.

and the amount of fares involved, is said to be about $60,000.

Railway Bill Passed. Rome, April 20.—The government's railway bill was carried by a large majority in the chamber of deputies. Republicans and Socialists voting in the negative. The strike interfering with travel, those members of the chamber of deputies who wished to return to their homes were provided with a special train to Civita Vecchia, 60 miles from Rome, from which place two warships conveyed them to Naples and Genoa.

GREAT SHOCK

TO NEWARK FRIENDS WAS THE NEWS FROM MT. VERNON.

Fred Jones and Wife Has Quarrelled During the Morning Over Money Matters, It is Said.

The Advocate special dispatch from Mt. Vernon Wednesday telling of the tragedy at the home of Fred W. Jones was a shock to the many Newark friends of both Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

It seems that the husband and wife quarrelled in the morning over money matters. Jones had asked his wife to turn over to him $1,000, which he had received from the estate of the late B. F. Jones. Owing to Jones's intemperate habits Mrs. Jones refused to give up the money. Jones then packed his trunk and stated that he would leave home. In the meantime Mrs. Jones, suspecting further trouble, telephoned for her brother-in-law, James Israel, superintendent of the Mt. Vernon Bridge Works. Mr. Israel soon reached the house and was engaged in conversation with Mrs. Jones when Mr. Jones entered the room and made further demands for the money. He became abusive, and Mrs. Jones stepped into the hall to call a policeman. Jones followed her into the hall and pulled a revolver from his pocket. Mrs. Jones seeing the danger started back to Mr. Israel for protection, but just as she entered the doorway Jones pulled the trigger and she fell dead with a bullet through the brain.

Jones took a step backward, and, placing the revolver at his right temple, discharged the weapon, and fell dead on the floor. The whole tragedy was enacted before Mr. Israel, but happened so quickly that he was unable to interfere.

Fred W. Jones was the first road master of the C. A. and C. railroad. During later years he has been in the contracting business, and has built a number of bridge roads in the state.

HIS SHARE OF THE FORTUNE.

Pittsburg, April 20.—Fred W. Jones was the nephew of the late Benjamin Franklin Jones, many times a millionaire, and Pittsburg's foremost manufacturer. He was one of the few men and needed to be remembered in Jones' will. It is said that his share was $10,000. The money was left in such a shape as to prevent the nephew from getting possession of the money at once. The wife was to have a part of say in distributing the money. Fred W. Jones was well known in Pittsburg.

AT TAYLOR HALL

Lecture by Mr. Mills Was Followed by Debate With Editor John H. Williams.

Quite a large audience heard the lecture and debate at Taylor Hall on Wednesday night, on the labor question. Mr. Walter Thomas Mills delivered a very interesting talk on this question. He quoted President Roosevelt as saying that the labor problem was one of the most difficult of any that now confront American people. He stated that there were four factions in the labor problem, capitalists, landlords, managers and workers and that all depend upon the latter, so that when the other three are not profiting, the shop is closed. Mr. Mills gave two definitions of capitalism, one, that it is the private ownership of all the means of all that which all of the people use; second, that it is the control by those who do not labor, of the products of those who do.

Then he gave as a definition of socialism the collective ownership by producers of their productions.

He said that we voted for the full dinner pail and got the full pail of injustices and bayonets.

We now make things, while the capitalists make the laws, we want to get to making both the things and the laws, then give these idle capitalists a job helping to make the things which they use.

Mr. Williams, editor of the American Tribune, contended that individualism was the source of all great achievements, and that socialism would retard or destroy individualism.

Mr. Mills replied that to give precedence to the highest individual achievement was one of the great purposes of socialism.

CANTATA "RUTH."

A mixed chorus of twelve, picked voices, under the direction of Mr. Walter Bentley Ball had another rehearsal last night of the sacred cantata "Ruth" by Alfred H. Gaul to be given in Taylor hall next Sunday afternoon. This beautiful cantata is written in two parts, the first part expressive of sorrow and the second expressive of joy. There will be choruses, quartets, trios, duets and solos.

The personnel of the chorus and the assignment of characters will appear in Saturday's paper. The meeting will be an open one so that all who desire to hear the cantata may do so.

CENTRAL CITY.

The Central City Sunday school will render a water program at the East Union school house next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 standard time. In this program the "Easter Story" is plainly and impressively told in recitation and song. All are cordially invited to attend, especially the members of our Home department. On account of this service there will be no evening service.

Beginning with April 30 and continuing through the summer the evening service will begin at 7:30 instead of at 7 o'clock.

WATER WORKS SUIT IN SUPREME COURT

MOTION FOR STAY OF EXECUTION ARGUED BY ATTORNEYS ON THURSDAY.

It is Thought the Court Will Render a Decision on the Point Next Tuesday.

Columbus, April 20.—A motion for stay of execution in the Newark Water Works case was made in the Supreme court here this morning. Judge John David Jones represented the plaintiff in the case, Charles Vadakin, and the city was represented by Mr. Boyle of Cleveland. It is thought that a decision will be rendered next Tuesday.

This motion was for a stay of the order of the Circuit court and for the purpose of preventing Seasongood & Myer and Dennison, Prior & Co., from selling the water works bonds. No request was made in the Supreme court to stop the city of Newark from paying the interest on the bonds or from proceeding with the erection of water works and using the money arising from the sale of bonds for that purpose. So that however the Supreme court decides this motion the city is free to proceed with the erection of water works.

THE NEW ADDITION.

NEWARK'S GROWTH IS WESTWARD; TEN YEARS HENCE THE CENTER OF THE CITY WILL BE IN THE VICINITY OF BUEHLER'S CORNER. THE REASON FOR THIS IS APPARENT. THE LAND IN THAT DIRECTION IS JUST RIGHT FOR RESIDENCE PURPOSES, HIGH, DRY, LEVEL, WELL DRAINED; THE WEST END IS THE FACTORY SITE OF NEWARK, WHY? BECAUSE OF THE TWO TRUNK LINES, B. & O. AND PAN HANDLE, AND THE THIRD, (TOLEDO AND OHIO CENTRAL) JUST A STONE'S THROW AWAY.

WISE PEOPLE WHO ARE BUYING REAL ESTATE FOR INVESTMENT ARE LOOKING TO THE WEST END; THRIFTY FOLKS WHO ARE LOOKING FOR A LOT UPON WHICH TO BUILD A HOME ARE BUYING IN THE WEST END, KNOWING THAT THEIR PROPERTY WILL CERTAINLY GROW IN VALUE.

IF ANY PERSON HAD INVESTED IN WEST NEWARK PROPERTY A YEAR AGO AND WANTED TO SELL TODAY HE COULD MAKE A HANDSOME PROFIT; WHAT IS TRUE OF A YEAR AGO IS TRUE OF TODAY. THE MAMMOTH WEHRLE SHOPS, THE BIGGEST STOVE FOUNDRY IN THE WORLD, ARE STILL GROWING, AND THE NEW FEATURE OF THE BIG PLANT, THE SAFE FACTORY, BIDS FAIR TO RIVAL THE STOVE INDUSTRY IN A SHORT TIME. THE WEHRLES, KNOWING THE DRIFT OF THE TOWN WESTWARD, HAVE BOUGHT MANY ACRES JUST WEST OF THE CITY, AND THEY WILL MAKE MONEY ON THE INVESTMENT. A NEW STEEL PLANT FOR THE WEST END IS ASSURED.

PEOPLE WHO BOUGHT LOTS IN THE WEHRLE ADDITION TO HELP BRING ABOUT THE ENLARGEMENT OF THE FACTORY HAVE ALL FOUND THEIR INVESTMENT A PROFITABLE ONE. MANY HAVE SOLD THEIR LOTS AT ADVANCED PRICES AND NOW WISH THEY HAD NOT SOLD.

THE WINTERMUTE PLACE, JUST WEST OF THE CITY LIMITS, NORTH OF IDLEWILDE PARK, AND A FEW STEPS SOUTH OF THE NEWARK & GRANVILLE ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY, HAS JUST BEEN DIVIDED INTO ONE HUNDRED LOTS, EACH 40 TO 45 BY 140 FEET. THE PROPERTY HAS BEEN NICELY GRADED AND LAID OUT WITH FINE, LEVEL, BROAD STREETS AND ALLEYS, MAKING CONVENIENT ACCESS TO ANY AND ALL PARTS OF THE ADDITION.

THESE LOTS WILL BE ON THE MARKET ON SATURDAY, APRIL 22ND, AND WILL BE SOLD AT PRICES THAT WILL MAKE THEM MOVE QUICKLY. WE PREFER TO SELL THEM CHEAPLY AND GIVE EVERY PURCHASER A BARGAIN RATHER THAN TO HOLD THEM AND DELAY THE SALE FOR A YEAR OR MORE. WE NEED THE MONEY AND FOR THAT REASON HAVE DECIDED TO FIX PRICES THAT WILL ATTRACT BUYERS AT ONCE.

HERE IS AN OPPORTUNITY TO SECURE A SPLENDID BUILDING LOT AT A BARGAIN. EVEN IF YOU LET THE LOT REMAIN UNIMPROVED, IT WILL RAPIDLY INCREASE IN VALUE. IMPROVE IT AND IT WILL GROW INTO MORE MONEY MORE RAPIDLY. HERE IS A CHANCE FOR THE INVESTOR AND FOR THE HOMESEAKER. PUT YOUR IDLE MONEY INTO REAL ESTATE IN A GROWING TOWN. YOUR MONEY DEPOSITED IN A LOT CANNOT GET AWAY FROM YOU.

THE BIG FACTORIES ARE IN THE WEST END AND THE GOOD FACTORY SITES ARE ALL IN WEST NEWARK. A STEEL PLANT IS TO BE BUILT UPON THE SHIDE FARM. THE T. & O. C. ROAD WILL BE IN WEST NEWARK BEFORE LONG.

BUYERS WILL HAVE NO INTEREST OR TAXES TO PAY UNTIL THE DEED IS TRANSFERRED TO THE BUYER.

Agents now on the ground to show this property.

This addition is owned by a home party, who was raised among us and whom everybody knows. He lives at the addition and will look after the purchasers interest. The financial part will be taken care of by The Newark Trust Co., one of the most solid institutions of the city, who will do what they guarantee. This is worthy of serious thought to the purchaser.---Office after Saturday at THE NEWARK TRUST CO, 27 North Third Street

How British Cities Manage Public Utilities

Birmingham Owns Its Street Railways, Electric Light and Power Plant and Many Other Utilities—Its Gas and Water Works Were Acquired in the Seventies Under the "Municipal Trading" System.

By FREDERICK UPHAM ADAMS.

[Copyright, 1904, by Frederick Upham Adams.]

VII.

BIRMINGHAM owns its gas plant and has operated it successfully for more than a third of a century. A private company controls the gas in Liverpool, and it will be several years before the city can acquire possession of the franchise. On the other hand, Liverpool operates its tramways, while a private company operates those of Birmingham, leasing them from the city.

It is rather singular that of the ten most popular objects of municipal ownership in Great Britain not a city has undertaken the entire list. The ten I have in mind are as follows:

- First.—Dwellings for the working classes.
- Second.—Tramways.
- Third.—Gas works.
- Fourth.—Electric lighting and power plants.
- Fifth.—Markets.
- Sixth.—Telephones.
- Seventh.—Baths and washhouses.
- Eighth.—Refuse and sewer disposal.
- Ninth.—Cemeteries.
- Tenth.—Works department.

All of these, with the exception of cemeteries, are reproductive institutions and in Great Britain are technically classed under the head of "municipal trading." In the above list I have placed only those utilities which are practically municipally unknown in the United States and have not included waterworks for the reason that a large percentage, if not the majority, of cities in this country and Canada clearly recognize that the water supply should belong to the city and be operated by it. Glasgow comes the nearest of any city to complete municipalization, but as yet it maintains no burial grounds.

I had an interesting talk with Sir Samuel Johnson on this subject. For thirty odd years Sir Samuel has been town clerk of Nottingham, and it should be understood that the town clerk is the principal officer in a British town or city, having vastly more power and influence than the mayor or any elective official. He usually holds his place for life, and most town clerks live to a good old age. It would be difficult to find a higher type of the courtly, old-fashioned English gentleman than Sir Samuel Johnson, and his official life goes back to the days before the present scope of public ownership was dreamed of.

"Why is it," I asked, "that there is so little uniformity of action among your cities in the matter of municipalization? If public ownership be a good thing, why do your cities omit certain enterprises and take up others? If it be practical for Birmingham to own its gas works, why is it not equally so for Liverpool and for all other cities?"

"When our young folks get married and start housekeeping," said Sir Samuel, after a pause, "each couple proceeds to fit up its house according to its tastes or means. One may buy a piano, another begin the collection of a library, a third may put all of its surplus earnings into land, while others will concentrate their energies on obtaining possession of various comforts and luxuries. But all have in mind the eventual ownership of everything which will conduce to happiness and prosperity. It is the same with our cities. There are good and sufficient reasons why they are compelled to wait before they dare assume certain responsibilities. Glasgow's proud position has been attained from the fact that she started on this work many years before the other cities did. In many instances we are hampered by leases and franchises granted to private companies and must wait until these expire or pay extortionate prices for their surrender. Every city in Great Britain knows that it should own its gas and electric lighting works, and every one has such ownership in contemplation. It is not a matter of principle, but of expediency—in other words, of money. Come over again," he concluded, with a smile, "as we poured out another cup of tea. Come over again when you are as old as I am, and our successors will show you the municipal edifice of which we are building the foundation."

When Joseph Chamberlain became mayor of Birmingham in 1873 he set about to purchase the gas and water supplies for the city. Several previous attempts had been made, but the conservatism of the taxpayers and the influence of corporate interests had been sufficient to defeat the enterprise. Chamberlain made an exhaustive study of the subject and presented a report favorably to the council that the measure passed by a vote of 34 to 2. The purchase price was in the neighborhood of $100,000. The city immediately reduced the price of gas from 7s to 6s and a thousand cubic feet, and the wisdom of Mr. Chamberlain's policy was shown in profits of $170,000 for the first year. Since then the rates have steadily been reduced until they now stand at 5s 6d, and at this low rate last year's profits exceeded $250,000 after setting aside a large sum for sinking fund and depreciation.

The tangible result of the public ownership of gas works in Birmingham is best shown by the fact that since the purchase there has been turned into the city treasury from gas revenues the sum of $5,000,000, with an extra $2,500,000 paid to the sinking fund, and the further fact that during these years the price paid for gas has averaged one-third less than that charged by the private company. The reduction in the expense of city lighting amounts to $1,250,000. The hundreds of men employed in the works receive higher wages and work fewer hours than formerly, and it is worthy of note that the record of tests and the evidence of consumers prove that a much better quality of gas is supplied now than before the city assumed control.

The municipal gas monopoly is complete, but there are no complaints, and I heard of no scandals. Owing to the high price of coal the cost of production is much greater than in the United States, but the gas is sold for half as much, with a large and interesting revenue to the city. When the bonds are all paid and the city becomes the absolute owner of the property the price will be yet further reduced. In the meantime the profits will have more than paid the cost of the plant.

The gross profits last year were nearly $900,000, and were it not that large sums had to be diverted to interest and sinking fund payments and to the assistance of the taxpayers it would be possible today, even with the abnormal price of materials, to produce and sell gas at less than 40 cents a thousand feet and leave a handsome profit. There is no theory about this. It is being done on an enormous scale in one of the world's largest cities.

I have space only to note the other enterprises in which Birmingham is engaged. The city maintains a comprehensive system of baths, ranging from open air baths for the poorer classes to modern Turkish baths. The income amounts to $25,000 a year. The city burial board has charge of cemeteries in which 4,000 were interred last year. It is the policy of the board to so conduct this estate as to make it self sustaining, and successive years show alternating profits and losses in small amounts.

Four years ago Birmingham purchased the electric light and power plant, paying the owners of the franchise more than $2,000,000. For the first two years the new management made so many improvements that there was a slight deficit, but the third year yielded a profit, and the last annual report indicated a net gain of $150,000, which went into the common treasury. The city owns its markets, and they are a source of revenue. Birmingham is a farmer on a large scale. The municipal farm comprises 1,500 acres, and 1,000 more are about to be added. This land is fertilized by the sewage and is largely devoted to cattle raising and dairy business. There are also immense herds of sheep which belong to the city. There are filtration works and a plant for handling the by-products, and these, with the farm, represent an investment of about $2,500,000. The last report shows that the annual sales of stock amount to $80,000, while $25,000 is realized from milk and about as much from wool. By these scientific methods the cost of disposing of sewage is materially reduced.

Birmingham purchased its water supply in 1876 under the administration of Joseph Chamberlain, paying $6,500,000 for the original plant. It has just completed at an expense of nearly $30,000,000 an extension of the scheme by which it conveys water from Wales, eighty miles away. It owns outright 130 square miles of hills and valleys which will supply water for a population of more than a million.

Birmingham has owned its tramways for years, but has pursued the policy of leasing the lines to private companies. These leases are now expiring, and the city has decided to take over their control. The British Traction company is making a hard fight to renew its franchises and has offered to pay 15 per cent of its gross receipts for the privilege of a charter for a limited number of years. American cities which have a mania for giving such franchises away may find amusement in estimating how much their revenues would amount to from 15 per cent of the receipts of those companies which have the free use of their streets. But the Birmingham authorities have rejected all terms. They proceeded to employ Alfred Baker, formerly in charge of the London tramways and justly regarded as one of the most capable experts in Great Britain, and have placed him in charge of the proposed municipal system. Instead of electricity, which they refused to install until recently, the company which held the lease used steam power. The motor looks like a box freight car with a stogie thrust through the roof, and when one of them goes puffing and clanking along the street strangers are overcome either with fright or amusement. Such is the service which Birmingham proposes to supersede with a strictly modern plant. Its experience with private tramway companies has been similar to that of some of the other British cities which in a short self-defense have been forced into public ownership in order to escape the antique methods of those stockholders who imagine that improvements war on dividends.

SPRING TIME NEED OF A GOOD TONIC

Frank D. Hall Tells About Spring Medicines and Their Uses.

"We often have people come to our store for something to 'brace them up,' said Frank D. Hall. 'We always recommend Rexall Muc-Tone as the ideal remedy, with the result that they invariably come back, not for the money, which we have always guaranteed to return in case of dissatisfaction, but to speak in the most appreciative terms of this wonderful remedy, and to thank us for having urged them to take it for their spring-time ailments.

"These customers think they are merely run down, out of sorts, and think they want a tonic, when in reality they are suffering with systemic catarrh, a form of disease where the catarrhal conditions are scattered throughout the whole body.

"Rexall Muc-Tone is a catarrh cure which we know will cure every form of catarrhal disorder. It is a purgative tonic, body builder and blood purifier. It has won the highest praise not only here but all over the country. It cleanses the mucous membranes of the body, drives out the poison, builds up wasted tissues. Because it does all this Muc-Tone is to our notion the ideal spring tonic. The very first dose of Muc-Tone braces you up, while three or four weeks of it in table-spoon doses three times a day will make you feel like a new person.

"It will rebuild your whole system, making you fairly bubble over with good spirits, buoyancy and vigor of perfect health.

"If you are feeling badly, are afraid you are going to be sick; if you are run down and miserable generally, our advice is to take a fifty cent bottle of Muc-Tone. If it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel better than you have in months we will promptly return your money."

COSTLY CHURCH PEWS

Some of Them Cost a Good Deal More Than a Dwelling—Here are a Few Samples.

Many readers have probably heard of New York's famous Grace church at Broadway and Tenth street, where there is a choir of "babies" ranging in ages from 4 years up, which church is said to be erected on land more valuable even than that whereon St. Paul's at London stands, says the St. Louis Post Dispatch. Here it is the custom to offer by auction all pews which the present owners desire to relinquish, and which possibly may have been in their family ever since the church was built.

A few months ago Pew No. 40, in the south transept of Grace church, was put up at auction in the New York Real Estate Sales Rooms for the trustees of the estate of the late Henry Ray. The bidding was started at $500 and rose rapidly to $1,000, when there was a pause. Then some one offered another hundred and the bidding advanced to $1,500, and was just about to be knocked down for this sum, when Hamilton G. King sprang another $50 and secured the pew.

On being asked if he was spending all this money for his own religious comforts, Mr. King stated that he had purchased the pew for another person, but whom he refused to state. The pew is a family one and holds six, is upholstered in dark red, and, according to the auctioneer, comfortable enough to foster the highest forms of religious charity. The pews in Grace church, with few exceptions, are owned by those who occupy them, and when one does find its way into the market it is eagerly purchased by rich parishioners.

One of the most fashionable churches in New York is St. Bartholomew's, on Madison avenue. This is known as "The Vanderbilt's church," for here the millionaires of that name worship. Pews in St. Bartholomew's can often be rented, but now seldom purchased, most of the pews being owned by the members of "Millionaire Row" on Fifth avenue. Occasionally, however, a pew in this church has come under the hammer, when it has brought a considerable sum of money, as much as $5,000 having been paid for six "seats" near the pulpit.

In the Catholic cathedral, close by, pews were also sold at auction, at times, and owing to the magnificent choir which this church supports, bring small fortunes.

For a Weak Digestion.

No medicine can replace food but Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will help you to digest your food. It is not the quantity of food that gives strength and a good complexion, but the amount digested and assimilated. If troubled with a weak digestion don't fail to give the Tablets a trial. Thousands have been helped by their use. They only cost a quarter. For sale by all druggists.

An Austrian student of the physician, and attending college, said that of those persons who are to be taken into consideration showing themselves to be afflicted in afflicting their health, another third dies after a long period of suffering from the wound of life, while the remaining third lives.

Frank operations against the disease, which are spoiling the young fishery on the coast of Brittany, are being undertaken by Dr. Kropf, physician.

TOM FREED JERRY

Care Taken by Sixteen-Year-Old Horse of His Blind Mate—Horses Attached to Each Other.

Tom and Jerry are 16 year old horses owned by a Jersey City lawyer who has a farm at New Brunswick, N. J., says the New York Sun. They are attached to each other and are apparently miserable unless together. Jerry has been blind for several years and Tom has appointed himself his mate's guardian. They occupy adjoining stalls and spend hours rubbing noses.

For a long time after Jerry lost his sight the stableman found the blind horse in his companion's stall every morning. He couldn't understand how he managed to untie the halter, and told his employer that he guessed somebody was playing pranks in the stable.

But the pranks continued so long that he was directed to solve the mystery. He hid in the hay, where he could get a full view of Tom and Jerry in their stalls and waited developments.

They came at a late hour. Tom shoved his nose over into Jerry's stall and whinnied. Jerry poked his nose close up to Tom's ear, and the man in the hay was almost certain that he saw the horse with the good eyes smile.

Then Tom turned his head around and looked all over the stable as if to learn if the cost was clear. A moment later he was tagging at the blind horse's halter with his teeth, and he didn't stop until his team mate was free.

Old Jerry slowly backed out of his stall and crowded in alongside Tom, who greeted him with an unmistakable neigh of delight. This trick was repeated night after night, and now the horses spend half their time in Tom's stall.

The sorrels have been pensioned off and are living in ease and luxury on the farm as a reward for faithful service.

He is still confined to his house, one mile southwest of town.

Aunt Hattie Butt is a little better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton of Croton moved into the Park Decor property last week, recently vacated by R. Graving.

If you are naturally not as strong as your more fortunate sisters, and for this reason experience dread rather than joy at the prospect of becoming a mother, take courage and assurance from this fact: Mother's Friend is meant for you, and by its use you may pass through that glorious martyrdom which is yours by divine right with no more discomfort than that experienced by those who by nature are possibly more adapted for the role of motherhood.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

LEGEND OF BLACK HAND

How Cliff East of Newark Was Marked by an Indian Chief
--Love Story With Touch of Tragedy--
A Picturesque Spot.

Many, both in Licking and contiguous counties have interrogated me as to the scenery of the eastern part of Licking county; especially have numerous inquiries been made concerning the "Black Hand" on a huge rock about three miles from this enterprising village and quite near to the widely known hamlet of Black Hand. This fact, together with a penchant for the beautiful in nature, prompts me to write briefly of the Black Hand rock and the scenery round about it, in the fond hope that my doing so will prove at least a little edifying to some of the many that have as yet not visited this section, or the Alps of Licking county. Romantic sentiment is rapidly giving place to the march of progress, and not a few old historic landmarks that ought to be preserved by the county or state, are becoming things of history. The hand of progress cares but little for these old landmarks, dear to the heart of the geologist and historian, hence the need of the county or state's care.

In the eastern part of Licking county, about three miles from the village of Clay Lick, on the line of the C. N. & Z. railway, and quite near where the Licking makes everlasting melody on its way to the "Blue Muskingum," is a huge mass of rock on which is still to be seen the outline of the "Black Hand," known of wherever the English language is spoken.

Thousands of visitors have traveled to the base of this rock to admire the beauty of the scene and also to trace out the huge black hand which is becoming so dim that in another decade or two there will be no sign of the gruesome yet attractive object, which tells of the wrath of an Indian warrior over the loss of his sweetheart, who was won by another warrior of the same tribe.

The Columbus, Newark & Zanesville railway has constructed a tunnel through the huge rock to avoid a detour around the hill, and while the tunnel does not mar the face of the rock, it has added, in a measure to the value of the scene in the eyes of the visitors to the place. This tunnel is said to be the only electric railway tunnel in the United States.

A few years ago, because of its historical value and to add interest to the place the Licking county commissioners caused to be built at the base of the rock a stone wall extending upward from the river bed, and on the top of this wall they had placed an iron railing that visitors might walk without danger of falling.

The rock abounds with many quaint, by the Indians centuries ago, indeed by the Indians centuries ago, indeed it is claimed that at the time when the Red Men roamed the Ohio wilderness undisturbed by civilization's achievements, that the rock was an Indian postoffice, the characters being placed there as messages to Indians of other tribes. But the great interest in the celebrated rock centers in the "Black Hand" legend beautifully written by the facile pen of one of Ohio's most talented ladies, Mrs. David Gebbert of Dayton, which was published in the quarterly issued by the Ohio Archaeological and Historical society. The legend goes like this:

"Many moons ago, long ere the pale face came across the Great Water to this land, here upon the bank of the Pataskala (Licking) was the lodge of the great chief, Powgahgah, whose daughter, Ahymah, was fair as the dawn and graceful as the swan that floats on the lake. Her eyes were soft and shy as the eyes of a young deer, her voice sweet and low as the note of a cooing dove. Two braves there were who looked upon her with eyes of sweetest love, and each would fain have led her from the lodge of her father that she might bring joy and light and felicity to his own.

"At last said the chief, her father, 'No longer shall ye contend for the hand of my daughter. Go ye forth now upon the warpath and when three moons have passed, see that ye come hither once more and then I swear by the Great Spirit that to him that shall carry at his belt the greater number of scalps, shall be given the hand of Ahymah, my daughter.'

"Three months had waxed later ere the warriors returned. Then upon the day appointed, behold, all the tribe gathered to view the counting of the scalps. First stepped forth Wacousta, a grim-visaged warrior, who had long parted company with fleet-footed youth, and walked soberly with middle manhood. From his belt he took his trophies one by one, and laid them at the feet of his chief, while from behind the lodge door, Ahymah, unseen by all, looked fearfully forth upon the scene. With each fresh scalp the clouds settled more darkly upon her face, and her lips trembled as she murmured 'So many, so many.' Then came the second brave, Lahcopis. Young he was, with the light of boyhood still lingering in his eyes, and upon his head an eagle feather telling withal of a strong arm and deeds of heroism. One swift glance he shot toward the lodge of the unseen maiden, then he loosened his belt and laid it at the feet of Powgahgah. Scalp after scalp they counted, while the people bent forward silently and a little hand drew aside the curtain from the lodge doorway, and a young face looked anxiously yet hopefully forth. Slowly, slowly, they laid them down, and at last behold, there was just one more than Wacousta had. The young Lahcopis had won.

Now strode forth Wacousta and laid his hand, the strong right hand that had failed to win the prize, laid it upon the rock, then lifted he his tomahawk high in the air and with one swift stroke severed the hand at the wrist and flung it high up against the face of the cliff, saying, 'Stay thou there, forever a mark of scorn in the eyes of all men; thou has let thyself be beaten by the cunning right hand of a boy. Disgraced thou art and no longer shalt thou be numbered among the members of my body.'

"And the hand clung to the rock, and turned black, and spread and grew until it became gigantic in size, and while the chief and his daughter and the tribe stood silently watching the wonder, the defeated Wacousta wrapped his robe about him, spoke no word of farewell, and striding swiftly forth into the dark depths of the forest, was never seen again by man.

"Ahymah and the victorious Lahcopis were soon wedded according to the Indian marriage rite of that long ago."

CROTON.

About 5:30 p. m. Monday the ringing of the M. E. church bell gave warning that fire had again broken out somewhere in town. As is customary here every man grabbed his bucket and ran in the direction the crowd was going. The fire was soon located on High street, in the substantial dwelling of Mrs. Thomas Benoy, and had gained an alarming start, the entire top story of one part being a mass of flames, but ladders were soon in position and twenty-five or thirty willing hands were soon at work in a way that again did great credit to Hartford's fire fighters. In less than one hour the fire was entirely out. This was possibly the best, and most daring fire fighting ever done in Hartford. Had the house burned at least three other dwellings were doomed, and possibly the M. E. and Congregational churches. The fire is supposed to have started from the railroad or saw mill. The property was insured.

STRANGE ROMANCE

Ring Taken by Turtle Forty Years Ago Returned and Marriage Ensues in Michigan.

The marriage in August of Miss Freda Olmstead and John Martin is the culmination of a romance which had its birth 40 years ago and was rudely broken by an innocent mud turtle, says a dispatch from Battle Creek, Mich., to the Chicago Inter-Ocean. This same animal is now the cause of their being brought together again.

In 1865 John Martin was employed in assisting in the construction of the Grand Trunk railroad. He made his headquarters in Galesburg and Augusta, and in the latter place met Miss Freda Olmstead, then a handsome young woman noted as one of the belles of that section.

Martin was a strapping young fellow, with a liberal education received in Germany, where he was born. The two young people's acquaintance soon ripened into love and they became betrothed.

During the absence of Martin on one of his trips along the line Miss Olmstead one afternoon accepted an invitation from an old friend to enjoy a boat ride on one of the little lakes near Augusta. While they were out a turtle was captured, and in a spirit of fun Miss Olmstead took off her engagement ring and placed it around the neck of the turtle.

In some manner the turtle escaped, and dropped off into the water of the lake, taking with it the ring. Although frantic efforts were made to recapture it, they proved fruitless.

When Martin returned home he was told of the incident and became enraged and charged Miss Olmstead with being faithless. All efforts on her part to convince him that such was not the case proved unavailing and resigning his position he returned to Germany, where he has since remained, managing the estate since left to him by the death of his father.

Early this spring while fishing in the lake a party captured a turtle, and noticing something around his neck looked upon examination that it was a ring, which proved to be that placed there 40 years ago by Miss Olmstead.

Miss Olmstead, although forsaken by her lover in his jealous rage, has never married, and the ring was at once placed upon her finger. She at once took steps to communicate with Martin, who had himself remained single, and he took the first steamer for this country.

Mr. Martin expects to remain in this country after making a return trip to Germany to settle up his business matters there, on which trip he will be accompanied by his bride.

A UNIQUE RECORD.
Not Another Like It in Our Broad Republic.

To give positive home testimony in every locality is of itself unanswerable proof of merit; but when we add to this the continued endorsement from people who testified years ago no evidence can be stronger. A Newark citizen gratefully acknowledges the good received from Doan's Kidney Pills and when time has tested the cure we find the same hearty endorsement, with added enthusiasm and continued praise. Cases of this kind are plentiful in the work of Doan's Kidney Pills, and such a record is unique in the annals of medicine.

E. Frank Edwards, plasterer, of 152 Ash St., Newark, O., says: "I had backache and had it bad. For several years I was suffering from sharp shooting pains in the region of the kidneys and a dull aching and weakness in the back which was becoming very serious. I tried remedy after remedy without finding relief and I nearly lost hope when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, obtained at Crayton's drug store. It was a gratifying surprise to find after a few doses of this remedy the pain seemed somewhat abated and I continued the treatment for some little time, using several boxes. I was thoroughly cured. I gave a testimonial at that time recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to others. It is now eight years since I made that statement, and I am glad to be able to say that the cure was permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

A Simple Way to Obtain the Smart Straight Front Effect.

To obtain the much sought after Elizabethan straight front bodice effect dressmakers are placing a wide corset steel down the high girle or pointed waist. Pads scented with sachet in heart shapes are also put in the girle at the top to preserve the straight line from bust to end of girle.

Tapestry girdles are the latest of fashion's fancies. They are wider in the back than in the front and are made of handsome bits of tapestry embroidery. In front they are finished with buckles ranging in size from half a dollar to a moderately large saucer.

ted coat suits with vest effects will be prominent in the new sartorial order.

The fitch trimmed waist will be a leader for the coming season in cotton and other fabrics.

A new thing in gloves are the navy blue gloves with pale colors.

One lingerie blouse with two colored silk slips is a commendable investment.

The dress pictured is a walking costume of gray serge. The coat is of the new rather close fitting short style. Cheville galloon trims both coat and skirt. The jaunty little waistcoat of white cloth is adorned with dull silver buttons.

POPULAR COLORS.

Green is One of the Leading Spring Shades—A New Stock.

There is a great lot of green shown in the spring fashions. Blue and green combinations are to be popular if the present showing of materials is to be relied upon.

A dainty spring costume is of almond green cashmere. The skirt is plainly about the hips and flares out in a fluffy fashion at the feet. Around the entire lower part of the skirt is a conventional design carried out in green braid through which runs a silver thread. The bodice is composed practically of a string colored bertha over a blouse waist of cashmere. A small collar of broderie anglaise over green velvet is a chic touch on this gown. A tie of darker green silk is arranged under the collar and ends in a smart bow. The chemise is of white mull and the sleeves wrinkle into a straight band of velvet. The girle is of dark green chiffon velvet.

One of the new stocks of the season is simply a narrow heavy linen turnover with a tab embroidered in shaded embroidery floss. The warmest summer day will not make this stock wilt, as it is scarcely higher than the neckband of the shirt waist. Shaded blues in delft tones are always pretty and becoming colors to use.

Sleeves ending at the elbow with turned up gauntlet cuffs and frills will be the thing on summer gowns.

The child's frock pictured is of mercerized cotton. The skirt has on each side of a plain panel front lines of braid, ending at the skirt edge with tabs of embroidery insertion. The blouse waist is similarly striped with the braid, and about the cut out neck is a collar of embroidery.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

A. H. Woods is getting out of the melodramatic class as a manager, and his first big star will be Elsie Fay in a musical comedy to be called "The Belle of Avenue A."

The second "Tenderfoot" company stranded in New Orleans recently, and the actors claimed that the management was in arrears to them for salaries amounting to about $3,000.

Rumor has it that Blanche Bates is to marry in the spring. The successful wooer of "The Darling of the Gods" is reported to be Richard Hotelling, a wealthy citizen of San Francisco.

The Boer war spectacle, which was a feature on the Pike at the St. Louis world's fair, is to be reproduced at Coney Island, New York, next summer and will not tour the country, as originally intended.

Margaret Wychly, who has been creating something of a furore in Boston with her odd productions of the Irish fairy plays by William Butler Yeats, the Celtic poet, has been booked for an engagement in New York city.

Richard Golden is to keep "Common Sense Bracket" out for some time. It is reported that he has acquired the proprietary rights to the play from Henry W. Savage and will manage his own tour in the near future.

That long promised but often deferred dramatic version of "Les Miserables," by Wilton Lackaye, with the actor in the role of Jean Valjean, is to be produced in April at McVicker's theater, Chicago, with a notable cast.

SHORT STORIES.

The advance of civilization is decreasing the number of prairie dogs.

The Chicago Relief and Aid association says there are 50,000 widows and 50,000 half orphan children in Chicago. There are 8,000 deserted women, with 15,000 children.

C. A. Orr, the American consul at Barranquilla, Colombia, reports to the government that American money is now the basis for nearly all transactions in Colombia.

In Tehama county, Cal., the board of supervisors has passed an ordinance putting a bounty of $1 upon each bald eagle killed in the county. The birds have been destroying many lambs.

A memorial to the late Senator Hoar has been suggested by the state house committee of the Massachusetts legislature. The details have not yet been made public, but it is thought that a large and suitable monument will be erected.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Myrtle green is a favorite color in silk petticoats.

Spring tailor suits are on the French style and simply trimmed, braids being used extensively.

A new lease of life is predicted for the linen collar during the coming spring and summer.

Pendent or hanging spangles, suspended by means of a wire loop passed through the hole, are novelties.

In the new styles the lines of the figure are followed more closely and artistically than for some years past.

Black leather and taffeta hats are much in vogue, white peacock or pheasant plumes representing a novelty in trimming.

Hand etched buckles in varied and artistic designs are destined for considerable popularity, according to fashion oracles.

POWER IN DEAD LEAVES.

These and Kindred Materials, Reduced to Gas, Will Run Motors.

The use of dead leaves, straw or hay as a source of power is the latest contribution to practical science made by French experimenters. Henri de Parville, writing in the Journal des Debats, Paris, vouches for the truth of this announcement. The experiments are being carried on by M. S. Bordenave, who has found it possible to produce enough gas by the combustion of vegetable matter to run a small but serviceable motor. The different materials used were straw, leaves, hay, etc., compressed into bales.

M. de Parville says the following results were obtained in practice: "With hay it was found that one horsepower could be obtained by using a little over two pounds of combustible, which, being valued at 10 francs per ton, made the cost of each single horsepower .01 francs. With the labor and other accessories the cost of the horsepower was raised to .056 francs for each horsepower for one hour. If the average quality of hay at a cost of 36 francs per ton be used the horsepower for one hour costs .076 francs. "Wheat and oat straw may be used to greater advantage. Here the power is obtained with a little over two pounds of material. The value of the straw being estimated at 25 francs per ton, the cost of the horsepower is .063 francs. With oat straw the horsepower costs .057 francs. The experiments with leaves gave a horsepower at a cost of .043 francs, while the power was obtained with a mixture of sawdust and shavings at a cost of .05 francs. With other material the results were in every way satisfactory from both an industrial and financial standpoint."

It is claimed by the experimenter that the new process will be particularly useful to farmers who are in need of small motors and have great quantities of refuse vegetable matter from which to obtain the power.—Translation in Public Opinion.

Danger of Lending a Flat.

A commission agent living in the Rue Sedaine, near the Place de la Republique, in Paris, obliged an eastern friend in his in this way and is now sorry he did it. The friend has put him to great inconvenience and has not apologized for a good reason. He is no more, having hanged himself in the borrowed flat. The deceased was M. Charles Modiano, described as a millionaire Turk, though his name sounds Armenian, and as the owner of a big trading concern in Constantinople, Smyrna and Salonika. Three days ago he asked his French friend to lend him the flat in the Rue Sedaine wherein to receive callers whom he did not want to see in his rooms in a hotel on the boulevards. The occupant agreed, as he was going out of town for a few days. On his return he went to his flat, which had remained at M. Modiano's disposal during his absence. He found the eastern gentleman hanging by a rope from the dining room ceiling. Modiano had been dead some hours. He had not left behind him even a word of excuse or explanation. He had experienced some financial losses lately, but they were trifling for a man in his position.

TWO OF A KIND.

How Dimpleton and Bitter Compared With Each Other.

"I am very glad," said Dimpleton, "that you have decided to take my house in the country. I wouldn't have had any trouble in disposing of it, but I wanted it to go to some one who would appreciate all of its good points, as I am sure you will. You will find the society of the place is charming. There's something going on all the time, and the people are delightful. Not only that, but in reality you have every convenience—mail delivery, long distance telephone, etc. Old man, I can assure you it breaks me all up to leave it. Never was so attached to a place in my life."

"Yes," said Bitter. "I can fully understand that. But by the way, old man, you have never told me just why you are leaving this place and going to the city."

Dimpleton drew him aside confidentially.

"Don't say anything about it," he replied, "but the fact is it was too expensive. I am forced to go back to the city because I cannot afford it here."

Bitter groaned.

"Good gracious," he exclaimed. "Why, that's precisely why I'm leaving town."—Judge.

Quid Pro Quo.

A small girl at dinner sat patiently through the various courses she was not allowed to eat because she had been promised dessert. The dessert turned out to be pie, which she was not allowed to have. A very small wedge of it was put upon her plate, however, to redeem the promise. She gazed at it a moment, sighed and said mournfully, "All that for this!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

From His Point of View.

"You can't imagine," said the musical young woman, "how distressing it is when a singer realizes that she has lost her voice."

"Perhaps not," replied the plain man, "but I've got a fair idea how distressing it is when she doesn't realize it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Of Greater Importance.

"But I think you should marry the tall blond," said the young man with the big cane. "She can arrange her hair beautifully."

"Better her hair?" exclaimed the practical young man. "I want a girl who can arrange a beefsteak beautifully."—Chicago News.

Persiflage and Persuasion

By EPES W. SARGENT

Copyright, 1903, by E. W. Sargent

"It's horribly improper to sit out three dances with the same man," remarked Miss Millington, though she did not offer to abandon her comfortable position in the cozy corner.

"A most proper and delightful propriety," declared Tanner, "providing, of course, that I am the one man."

"They will be saying that we are engaged," hinted Miss Millington.

"Heaven forbid that they speak not the truth!" he answered, keeping his eyes fixed upon the vista of the ball-room showing through the arched doorway.

"But we are not!"

"It's not my fault," he said humbly. "I should say not," she retorted sarcastically. "To propose three times in one evening?"

"Four," corrected Tanner comfortably. "I think I just proposed again."

"I don't remember," she protested. "Maybe not!" he agreed. "I've got so in the habit of that I guess I am growing stale. I thought I said something about hoping that they spoke the truth when they said we were engaged."

"DICK," SHE CALLED SOFTLY.

"Oh, that!" she said, with infinite scorn.

"I can't give you one out of 'The Lover's Handy Manual' every time," he apologized. "I'm saving those up for grand occasions."

"Out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh," she quoted lightly.

"Not always," he urged. "Sometimes I can't say a word."

"And other times I wish you could not," she finished cruelly.

"How would you like California for a honeymoon?" he asked irrelevantly.

"It would all depend," she laughed. "I think I prefer Europe. I detest trains."

"So do I," he answered, with a relapse into lightness. "In a ballroom. Stepped on Mrs. Bascom's, and she looked at me as though I was a train robber and not merely a wrecker."

"Is one worse than the other?" she demanded.

"I don't know," he admitted. "I had to say something."

"Yes," she asked, with a rising inflection that conveyed a negative.

"You see," he argued to save his ground. "If you're wrecked you may lose your life, but you won't mind it. If you are robbed you lose your money, and you do."

"Is money more important than life?" she exclaimed.

"Some people appear to think so," he said pointedly.

She laid a gloved hand upon his arm. "See here, Dick," she said pleadingly. "Don't think I am going to accept Clarence Stone for his money."

"Are you marrying him because you love him?" he asked, turning that he might look straight into her eyes.

She tried to meet his glance, but her lashes fell.

"You don't understand," she said pleadingly. "You see—"

"That's the trouble," he broke in impetuously. "I see all too well. You are going to marry him because you feel that you have to, because you are afraid to face your mother and tell her that you will not marry merely for money."

"You put it so crudely," she complained.

"Does it add the pill," he said bitterly. "To pretend that you owe it to your mother to accept this most advantageous match she has made for you?"

"We owe a duty to our parents," she insisted.

"But not when duty means a lifetime of regret."

"Clarence is very kind," she said faintly. "Mother says that in time—" "You will come to love him dearly," he finished for her. "It's the old argument, trotted out every time a girl is laid a sacrifice upon the altar of Mammon. Do you think you will ever learn to love him?"

"You are very cruel," she said, with a little break in her voice.

He laughed harshly. "And what may be said of you?" he demanded. "We have been sweethearts since we were children. I have a fair income and a name that has never been tarnished.

Our tastes are congenial, our opinions are the same, we love each other, yet because a good natured, foolish newly arrived wishes you for his house and is willing to pay for you just as he paid for that Whistler he bought last summer—and he will appreciate you just about as much as he can the painting—you must marry him."

"Mother is not rich," she said faintly.

"She has an income of $10,000 a year," he declared. "If she would, she could live within that income in entire comfort."

"But until papa died"—she said softly.

"Until your father died," he persisted, "she spent every cent he could earn. That's why she has no more now."

"Mother can't help"—she began.

"I don't ask her to," he broke in, willfully misunderstanding her. "I leave tomorrow for California, to take over the Santa Anna vineyard. It's going to be hard sledding at the start, but I can keep a wife in comfort, and I hoped that you would come with me."

"You are going west tomorrow?" she cried, startled out of her pose.

"And alone," he said simply. "I had hoped for your love and sympathy. At any rate, I could stand the uncertainty here no longer. All my money is tied up in the vineyards now, and I can't afford to come back east and hang around."

"Did you suppose I could leave so soon?" she asked.

"You won't need more than you have to go out there," he explained. "You could pack up in the morning, be married in the afternoon and leave in the evening."

"Of all the ridiculous things!" she exclaimed.

"It isn't ridiculous," he said soberly. "I can't riden this sort of thing any longer."

Without warning he clasped her close. For a moment she felt the pressure of his lips against hers, the tightening of his powerful arms, then without a word he rose and walked quickly toward the door that she might not see how he was suffering.

"Dick," she called softly, but not so low that his quick ears did not catch the words. He turned and came toward her. Every instant he remained was exquisite torture, and he chafed at the delay, yet even now her slightest word was a command. "Dick," she said softly as he bent his head. "I don't think a trip to California would make a bad honeymoon."

She was smiling at him as she had smiled in the early evening, but now there was a new light of tenderness in her eyes. His face glowed with hope.

"There's luck in odd numbers," he cried. "I've already proposed four times. For a fifth time, will you marry me, sweetheart?"

He bent his head so low to catch her answer that her lips brushed his cheek as she whispered, "Yes."

Cardinal Newman's Gentleman.

In telling what he thought a gentleman should be Cardinal Newman once wrote: "He has his eyes on all his company. He is tender toward the bashful, gentle toward the distant and merciful toward the absurd. In his conversation the gentleman will remember to whom he is speaking, have thought for all the company and avoid allusions that would give pain to any of them, steering away also from topics that irritate. When he does a favor to another (and he does many) the gentleman will somehow make it appear that he is receiving the benefit instead of conferring it. He is never mean or little in his disputes. Moreover, he shows that he has an intellect far above the average in the fact that he never mistakes personalities and sharp sayings for arguments. Most of mankind do. When grief, illness or losses come to him he submits to pain because it is inevitable. Bereavement he takes with heroic philosophy because it is irreparable. He goes to death without a murmur because it is destiny."

The Power of Prejudice.

The wife of a New Zealand missionary once had an interview with a native matron, who confessed that she would die with shame at the idea of permitting her boy to "run about with an undressed face"—i. e., with cheeks free from tattoo marks. The attempt to save native youngsters from the martyrdom of the absurd custom caused repeated riots and disagreeable scenes with the indignant relatives, and with a similar emphasis the eastern Hindus protest against the abolishment of infant marriages.

In Calcutta alone the indignation meeting of the priests was attended by 155,000 natives, including hundreds of rajahs, merchant princes and scholars, besides tradesmen and peasants. The women of Bengal observed a general fast on the "day of protest," shrieks and howls filled the air. The population of several cities seemed to have gone crazy en masse. One fanatic offered to sacrifice his life to propitiate the wrath of heaven.

Eagles and Chamois Fight.

A desperate combat between two eagles and a chamois was witnessed on a snow covered mountain near Flush.

One of the eagles attacked a young chamois, when it was charged by the sire of the herd, which was some distance away. At this point another eagle appeared, but the chamois repeatedly beat them both off by fierce thrusts of its antlers.

The struggle continued for half an hour, after which the birds took to flight. The chamois remained immovable, with head erect, gazing defiantly at the soaring birds until they were lost to sight.

Some sportsmen next day found the spot where the heroic combat had taken place littered with feathers and fur, and the snow was splashed with blood.

A SUCKER A MINUTE.

There's a man who's out for suckers: Notice how his forehead puckers; He is looking out for victims, and he hasn't far to look.

He can tell the genius homo Quickly as he can a chamois. From a thousand dollar painting, and he knows him like a book.

HOLY WEEK
Low Mass at St. Francis de Sales Thursday Morning—Sacrament Administered.
The services at St. Francis de Sales church commenced Thursday morning with a low mass at which the Very Rev. rector officiated and administered the blessed sacrament to about 250 persons. After this followed the high mass sung by Rev. J. F. Lang of McConnellsville at which the procession to the repository took place at which office a large number of children beautifully dressed in white and carrying baskets of flowers took part. As the procession passed through the church the celebrant carried the blessed sacrament and while the choir sang the processional hymn and the children strewed flowers before the procession the large congregation worshipped the sacred host as the priest carried it in the chalice for the adoration of the people. The repository is built in the arch and space occupied by the blessed Virgin's altar and is one of the most artistic as well as the richest ever erected in St. Francis de Sales church. It is supplied with a great variety of natural flowers, palms, etc., and the rich drapery of lace and gold trimmings, together with the numerous plated candelabra and lighted candles make the scenic effect very attractive and pleasing. A very large congregation was present considering the large number who attended the first mass, and the state of the weather. Father O'Doylan went to Columbus after the early services to be present in the Cathedral at the consecration of the holy oils and to bring back the oils and chrism necessary to bless the baptismal font on holy Saturday. The whole of this day will be devoted to the worship of the Real Presence in the Host placed in the repository.
The work on the repository was designed and carried out under the direction of the Sisters of St. Dominic.

In view of the centennial celebration to be held in Granville the coming fall, as well as for many other reasons, there should be a resurrection and revitalization of the Licking County Pioneer Association, which is not dead, but very much asleep.
Therefore as a member of this society in years gone by, I suggest a meeting of all persons in sympathy with this proposition to be held at the court house in Newark, Saturday afternoon, May 6, at 2 o'clock.
M. L. WILSON.

BREAKING TRAIL
In the Frozen Wilderness is the Meanest of All Tasks Says Writer in Scribner's Magazine.

To break trail is to pack with your snowshoes the soft and uncrusted snow into a more solid path, so that the dogs and the toboggans may be brought forward to where you make camp. Even the snowshoes, two feet in width, sink a foot or eighteen inches at every step. The snow crumbles and piles in on top of the web, so that you have to tear each step with a wrench and a kick and a cloud of frozen white. You go forward, you rest, you go forward again, forcing your way laboriously through no one can say how many feet of snow. The weariness enters into the very marrow of your bones. The snowshoe strap moves back and forth just enough across the moose hide moccasins, to gall the foot, to the flesh of the toes, the muscles across the instep ache with knife like cuts with every step as you lift the heavy weight of snow that covers the shoe out of sight.

I remember this first day out we stopped midway across the lake to rest. The guides dropped the tump-line from the forehead to their shoulders, cut some tobacco from a plug, rubbed it between their hands, and filled short black pipes. The dogs lay flat on the snow and let and chewed at the solid lumps of ice that had gathered on the jaws. With the handle of my ax I scraped from my snowshoes the frozen masses of ice that had gathered under my moccasins and were wearing blisters on my feet. We rested here only a few minutes, and then the bitter cold drove us on again, for no one dared to stop long in such a temperature.

This breaking trail is very picturesque to an outside observer. Oftentimes afterward, when unremembered, I had gone on ahead, I would stop and turn and watch the guides—black pygmies striding through the boundless stretch of white, with their heavily laden toboggans in great clouds of snow. With their shoulders thrust forward and their heads bent to the trail, they would swing along at an even stride across the level expanse of frozen snow, broken only by a thin line of foot stretching behind them out into the distance, and by the many still narrower tracks of the fox criss-crossing here and there on the smooth surface.

The only country which does not use the red cross as the emblem of her hospital corps, is Turkey, which is allowed to use a red crescent in deference to her soldiers' religious susceptibilities.

Out of every 10,000 work people about seven are killed in the year by industrial accidents. In the case of seamen the number killed per 10,000 is about 62. So says the London Labor Gazette.

An Irishman returning to his village from a first visit to Dublin, where the electric lights much impressed him, remarked: "It do beat me how they make a hairpin burn in a bottle."
